

Corporate Journal from RingGo

In your organisation, how many employees pay to park in your own car parks simply to claim that parking costs back on expenses? How much time and money does that cost you? What about key workers, such as Social Workers, or care providers from other agencies that incur parking costs that you pay through your contracts?

Introducing Corporate Journal from RingGo

Corporate Journal provides a quick and easy way for nominated employees or vehicles to park for business, without the need to pay and claim. Employees simply park using the RingGo app and select the "Corporate" option, enabling them to benefit from the Council's own parking facilities, without having to physically pay. No more receipts, no more expense claims.

Your organisation benefits from saved costs, reduced administration, comprehensive reports and an end to end audit of its business parking.

When your employees pay to park using RingGo Corporate, the system records the sessions and allocates the journal cost to the correct department. As on street parking is operated by the Council, internal journal transfers are used to balance the payments, and no physical exchange takes place.

Setting up the scheme is straightforward. The secure online administration and management suite allows the service Administrator (and any nominated Manager), to add or remove employees (recorded by either vehicle registration or mobile number); monitor usage; and access a wealth of information on business parking.
